Rose Pouchong

A range of natural infusions grown on the Tregothnan Estate in Cornwall:

Peppermint, Chamomile, Manuka, Lemon Verbena, Nettle or Fennel

SINGLE ESTATE TEAS £9.50

Mohokutie Second Flush

Mohokutie is one of the oldest tea estates located in the Doom Dooma district, south of the great Brahmaputra River. Mohokutie, in Assamese, means 'the buffalo camp'. The leaf is wiry and tippy, producing a malty, golden liquor.

Darjeeling FTGFOP

This Darjeeling from the spectacular foothills of the Himalayas is one of the highest-grown, from bushes over a century old that still produce tea of unrivalled quality. The leaf is tippy and produces a subtle muscatel flavour.

Pi Lo Chun

This delicate tea has an illustrious history dating back 1300 years to the reign of China's famous Kangi Emperor who first tasted it at Pi Lo Peak. Pi Lo Chun means "green spring snail", due to its downy tips and a slightly wrinkled leaf. Growing among peach, apricot and plum trees, the tea bushes absorb the full fruity aroma of the blossom when the buds open in spring. As a consequence, it offers a delicate cup with a fruity and fresh taste with a bright and colourful liquor.

Yunnan Golden Needles

A full bodied malty black tea with an abundance of golden tips, an indication of fine plucking standards. The leaf has been carefully rolled resulting in the needle-like appearance.

TREGOTHNAN BLACK TEA £34.00

Tucked away on the banks of the River Fal in Cornwall is the Tregothnan Estate, home of Lord Falmouth's family since 1335. Secretly developed over the last eight years and heralded as the "Next Darjeeling", the perfected tea has become in short order one of the world's most sought-after.
